

Mayor Thomas P. Koch

Adams Green

QUINCY, MASSACHUSETTS

What: the design of the public works, transportation infrastructure, and streetscape improvements to support the design and construction of the Adams Green space.

The Goal: ensure that Adams Green achieves its full potential as a new, green, bicycle and pedestrian friendly, transit-accessible focal point for downtown.

When: October 2011 – October 2012

How it's paid for: the project is funded through a federal transportation earmark.

The project team: the City of Quincy and a multi-disciplinary team comprised of engineers, planners and urban designers with Howard/Stein-Hudson as the project lead. AND YOU!

In person

Please come to our next public meeting. Watch for updates from the City, in your local newspaper, and on the project website.

We want to hear from you:

The City of Quincy and the consultant team both believe that a project of this size should be done with the community and not for it. We invite you to learn more about the project and become involved.
